

CONGRESSIONAL BUDGET OFFICE COST ESTIMATE

August 1, 2000

International Malaria Control Act of 2000

As ordered reported by the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations on July 26, 2000

SUMMARY

The International Malaria Control Act of 2000 would authorize the appropriation of $50 million in 2001 and $50 million in 2002 for programs to control malaria in developing countries. CBO estimates that implementing the bill would raise outlays by $90 million over the 2001-2005 period, assuming appropriation of the authorized amounts. Because it would not affect direct spending or receipts, the bill would not be subject to pay-as-you-go procedures.

The International Malaria Control Act of 2000 contains no intergovernmental or private-sector mandates as defined in the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act (UMRA) and would not affect the budgets of state, local, or tribal governments.

ESTIMATED COST TO THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT

The estimated budgetary impact of the International Malaria Control Act of 2000 is shown in the following table. The costs of this legislation fall within budget function 150 (international affairs).

BASIS OF ESTIMATE

For this estimate, CBO assumes that the authorized amounts would be appropriated by the start of each fiscal year. We also assume that outlays would follow historical spending patterns for similar programs.

By Fiscal Year, in Millions of Dollars

	2000	2001	2002	2003	2004	2005
