

CONGRESSIONAL BUDGET OFFICE
COST ESTIMATE

H.R. 2201

National War Permanent Tribute Historical Database Act

As ordered reported by the House Committee on Resources on May 5, 2004

H.R. 2201 would authorize the Department of the Interior to establish and maintain a database of public memorials to military conflicts. The department would be authorized to enter into contracts and cooperative agreements to obtain information and services to develop the database, which would make information about the location and history of permanent memorials available to the public. Within three years of the legislation's enactment, the department would report to the Congress on the feasibility of establishing a federal fund to repair, restore, or maintain the memorials that are listed in the database.

Based on information provided by the National Park Service (NPS) and assuming appropriation of the necessary amounts, CBO estimates that it would cost around $1.6 million over the next year or two to establish the memorial database. This amount would be used to design and develop the database. We estimate that additional costs to maintain the database would be less than $500,000 annually beginning in 2006, also assuming appropriation of the necessary amounts. Enacting H.R. 2201 would not affect direct spending or receipts.

This bill contains no intergovernmental or private-sector mandates as defined in the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act and would impose no costs on state, local, or tribal governments.
