S. 1750

George C. Marshall National Historic Site Study Act

As ordered reported by the Senate Committee on Energy and Natural Resources on July 21, 2010

S. 1750 would require the National Park Service (NPS) to conduct a special resource study of the Dodona Manor and other property in Leesburg, Virginia, the home of George C. Marshall during an important part of his career. In the study, the NPS would evaluate the resources of the site and determine the suitability and feasibility of designating it as a unit of the National Park System. The NPS would have three years to complete the study and report to the Congress on its results.

Based on information provided by the NPS and assuming the availability of appropriated funds, CBO estimates that carrying out the study required by S. 1750 would cost about $250,000 over the next three years. Enacting S. 1750 would not affect direct spending or revenues; therefore, pay-as-you-go procedures do not apply.

S. 1750 contains no intergovernmental or private-sector mandates as defined in the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act and would impose no costs on state, local, or tribal governments.

The CBO staff contact for this estimate is Deborah Reis. The estimate was approved by Theresa Gullo, Deputy Assistant Director for Budget Analysis.
