H.R. 482
Ocmulgee Mounds National Historical Park Boundary
Revision Act of 2016

As ordered reported by the House Committee on Natural Resources on February 3, 2016

H.R. 482 would redesignate the Ocmulgee National Monument in Georgia as the Ocmulgee Mounds National Historical Park, authorize the expansion of the newly designated park's boundaries, and authorize a special resource study of the Ocmulgee River corridor.

The National Park Service would be permitted to expand the monument boundary only through a donation or exchange of land. Based on information from the National Park Service about the cost of developing the resource study, CBO estimates that implementing the legislation would have an insignificant cost; such spending would depend on the availability of appropriated funds.

Because enacting H.R. 482 would not affect direct spending or revenues, pay-as-you-go procedures do not apply. CBO estimates that enacting H.R. 482 would not increase net direct spending or on-budget deficits in any of the four consecutive 10-year periods beginning in 2027.

H.R. 482 contains no intergovernmental or private-sector mandates as defined in the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act and would impose no costs on state, local, or tribal governments.
