S. 795

A bill to enhance whistleblower protection for contractor and grantee employees

As ordered reported by the Senate Committee on Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs on February 10, 2016

S. 795 would amend federal law to permanently extend legal protections to certain nonfederal employees (contractors, subcontractors, grantees, and others employed by entities that receive federal funds) who report waste, fraud, or abuse involving federal funds. Specifically, under the bill, anyone who reports the misuse of federal funds could not be demoted, discharged, or discriminated against because of the disclosure. The current four-year pilot program that extends those same protections ends in December 2016.

The cost to implement S. 795 would depend on the number of whistleblower claims made by those nonfederal employees. Evidence from the pilot program that currently protects certain non-federal employees from such discrimination suggests that the number of such claims brought by nonfederal employees has totaled less than 20 for each of the 26 major federal agencies. CBO estimates that implementing S. 795 would cost about $3,000 to investigate each claim, or about $5 million over the 2017-2021 period. Any such spending would be subject to the availability of appropriated funds. Enacting the bill could affect direct spending by agencies not funded through annual appropriations; therefore, pay-as-you-go procedures apply. CBO estimates, however, that any net increase in spending by those agencies would be negligible. Enacting S. 795 would not affect revenues.

CBO estimates that enacting S. 795 would not increase net direct spending or on-budget deficits in any of the four consecutive 10-year periods beginning in 2027.

S. 795 contains no intergovernmental or private-sector mandates as defined in the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act and would not affect the budgets of state, local, or tribal governments.
