The Statutory Pay-As-You-Go Act of 2010 establishes budget-reporting and enforcement procedures for legislation affecting direct spending or revenues. The net changes in outlays that are subject to those procedures are shown here. The legislation would designate roughly 1.5 million acres of federal land in Colorado, California, and Washington, as wilderness; incorporate over 1,000 miles of river segments into the National Wild and Scenic Rivers System; withdraw over 1 million acres of federal land from mineral leasing and entry under the mining laws; and authorize the Department of the Interior to collect and spend donations. CBO estimates that enacting the bill would increase direct spending by insignificant amounts in any year and by $1 million over the 2021-2031 period due to forgone receipts from mineral leasing, timber production, the sale of forest products, and other income-generating activities. Enacting the bill would not affect revenues.
