S. 4171 would authorize the appropriation of $502 million over the 2023-2026 period for programs to prevent trafficking in persons. Those amounts would be authorized for accounts managed by the Department of State, Department of Justice (DOJ), Department of Homeland Security (DHS), and the U.S. Agency for International Development. CBO estimates that implementing S. 4171 would cost $271 million over the 2022-2027 period, subject to the appropriation of the specified amounts.

The bill's effect on federal spending would stem from specified authorizations for several programs totaling $126 million a year over the 2023-2026 period (see Table 1). That amount comprises:

- $103 million a year for foreign assistance to prevent trafficking overseas,
- $17 million a year for the Department of State's Office to Monitor and Combat Trafficking in Persons, and
- $6 million a year for activities by DOJ, DHS, and the Department of State to monitor sex offenders travelling overseas and to stop child sex trafficking.

The costs of the legislation, detailed in Table 1, fall within budget functions 150 (international affairs) and 750 (administration of justice).
