

CBO's Recent Publications and Work in Progress as of June 30, 2022

July 2022

To provide the Congress with a comprehensive review of its work, the Congressional Budget Office publishes quarterly reports, like this one, highlighting recent work and summarizing work in progress.<sup>1</sup>

Recent Work

Over the past three months, CBO has provided a variety of budget and economic analyses, fulfilling the agency's core mission of supporting the Congress during each stage of the legislative process.

The agency has published 215 cost estimates for legislation that was reported by a committee or that was the subject of a motion to be placed on the consensus calendar. One of those cost estimates was for S. 2938, the Bipartisan Safer Communities Act (now P.L. 117-159), which provides funding to encourage the enactment of state laws aimed at controlling access to guns and to support a variety of other initiatives to enhance school safety, mental health programs, and violence prevention. In addition, a number of cost estimates were for bills that would increase funding for services provided to veterans. They included an estimate for H.R. 3967, the Honoring our PACT Act of 2021, which would increase disability compensation and expand health care services for some veterans, and an estimate for H.R. 7158, the Long-Term Care Veterans Choice Act, which would authorize the Department of Veterans Affairs to increase access to medical foster homes for some veterans with severe disabilities.

In addition, since its last quarterly report on work in progress, CBO has released 21 reports, working papers, testimonies, and interactive tools; they satisfied statutory requirements, fulfilled Congressional requests, or provided economic and budgetary analysis or technical information (see Table 1 on page 5).

Most notable among the publications that analyzed the economic and budgetary situation was The Budget and Economic Outlook: 2022 to 2032, published on May 25. Supplemental information released along with the report included 11 years of projections for about 2,000 separate budget accounts as well as for major categories of revenues and for economic variables. The agency also published details about baseline projections for selected programs related to education, health, Social Security and pensions, and other issues. In addition, CBO completed its mandated update on the cost of the Troubled Asset Relief Program. Each month, CBO issued its Monthly Budget Review, an analysis of federal spending and revenues for the previous month and the fiscal year to date. The agency also produced a report and an accompanying interactive workbook that showed how variations in economic conditions might affect its budget projections.

Other interactive tools included these:

- An enhanced capability for analyzing the force structure of the U.S. military and understanding how that structure influences defense spending and
- A workbook that allows users to see how different revenues and outlays would increase or decrease net interest costs and thus affect deficits and debt.

CBO's products presented analyses to inform policy discussion and debate:

- A report estimating the budgetary effects of federal credit programs in 2023,
- A report on the economic effects of waiting to stabilize the federal debt, and
- A working paper describing a method for assessing uncertainty in long-term economic projections.

CBO also published four products requested by the Congress:

- An analysis of wildfires;
- A report on work requirements and work supports for means-tested benefits;
- A visual report on the availability of F-35 aircraft; and
- An estimate of the effects that lowering the age of eligibility for Medicare to 60 would have on the federal deficit, as well as a description of the basis of that estimate.

Other recent publications explained how CBO does its work. A letter to House Budget Committee Chairman John Yarmouth provided an update on the agency's efforts to increase its capacity to analyze how budgetary and economic conditions or developments may affect various demographic groups differently. In a letter to House Budget Committee Ranking Member Jason Smith, CBO provided information about the cost of eight executive actions taken by the Biden Administration. CBO also published a working paper that provided a technical description of a model for estimating what is termed the fair value of mortgage guarantees, using prices from private mortgage insurers.

Another way CBO explained its work was by offering widely attended presentations to Congressional staff: one in June on the agency's most recent budget and economic projections and the other in April on recent research in health care prices.

Work in Progress

As of June 30, CBO was working on 253 cost estimates for legislation that had been ordered reported by a committee or that was the subject of a motion to be placed on the consensus calendar (see Table 2 on page 6). In addition, the agency was working on 23 analytic products that it expected to complete in the coming months.

Several recurring reports were in progress as of June 30:

- An Analysis of the Discretionary Spending Proposals in the President's 2023 Budget (released on July 1)
- Monthly Budget Review: June 2022 (released on July 11);
- The 2022 Long-Term Budget Outlook, which will be released on July 27;

- Expired and Expiring Authorizations of Appropriations, which will be released in August;
- An Analysis of the President's 2023 Budget, which provides a more comprehensive analysis of the President's budget request and which will be released in mid-September; and
- Options for Reducing the Deficit, which will be published at the end of this year.

Four requested products were in progress as of June 30:

- A report that presents the distributions of household income, means-tested transfers, and federal taxes between 1979 and 2019;
- A report describing trends in the distribution of family wealth;
- An overview of the federal response to the abuse and misuse of opioids; and
- An analysis of policy approaches that aim to reduce the prices paid by commercial health insurers for hospitals' and physicians' services.

CBO has many other products in the research, drafting, and editing stages that support its mission of furnishing the Congress with timely analysis of policy issues.

Some will provide microeconomic and tax analyses:

- An explanation of why CBO applies a revenue offset to estimates of changes in excise taxes and certain other taxes,
- An assessment of the issues involved in pricing emissions of methane from oil and gas,
- A description of trends in greenhouse gas emissions from the electric power sector,
- An overview of the role of the transportation sector in contributing to greenhouse gas emissions, and
- A description of the factors that explain observed patterns in the economic profits of corporations and federal corporate income taxes over recent decades.

Some will provide macroeconomic and financial analyses:

- An analysis of the causes and consequences of fiscal crises and
- A report on insurance risk sharing.

Other products will explain or support the analytic methods used for CBO's financial analyses and budgetary estimates or provide background information:

- An updated interactive tool that allows users to explore how various policies to increase the federal minimum wage would affect earnings, employment, family income, and poverty;
- A report that explains how CBO forecasts the Federal Reserve's balance sheet, the overall effect of quantitative easing on federal deficits, and the risks associated with using the balance sheet as a tool for monetary policy;
- A primer on the fiscal measures CBO considers when constructing its long-term budget analysis;
- A working paper analyzing how the amount physicians are paid for services affects access to care for dual-eligible beneficiaries (people dually enrolled in Medicare and Medicaid) compared with Medicare-only beneficiaries; and
- A working paper describing the role of defined benefit and defined contribution wealth plans in the distribution of family wealth.

A list of CBO's forthcoming analytic reports and all of its published reports are available on the agency's website.<sup>2</sup>

The Congressional Budget Office prepares this report each quarter to help keep the Congress informed about the agency's work. Daniel Fried prepared this edition with guidance from Leigh Angres and with contributions from many people at CBO. Fiona Forrester compiled the list of pending cost estimates. Jeffrey Kling reviewed the report, and John Skeen edited it.

The report is available at www.cbo.gov/publication/58153. CBO seeks feedback to make its work as useful as possible. Please send comments to communications@cbo.gov.
