H.R. 5110 would amend the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 to allow schools to use federal education funds to purchase or use dangerous weapons (as defined in law) to train students in archery, hunting, other shooting sports, or culinary arts. CBO estimates that the cost to the Department of Education to implement the bill would be insignificant; any spending would be subject to the availability of appropriated funds.

The CBO staff contact for this estimate is Garrett Quenneville. The estimate was reviewed by H. Samuel Papenfuss, Deputy Director of Budget Analysis.
