Unauthorized Appropriations and Expiring Authorizations

pursuant to
Section 202(e)(3) of the Congressional Budget and Impoundment Control Act, as Amended

(Senate Version)

January 15, 2004
Preface

This report by the Congressional Budget Office (CBO) satisfies the requirements of section 202(e)(3) of the Congressional Budget and Impoundment Control Act, as amended. The purpose of the report is to help the Congress adopt authorizing legislation that should be in place before it considers the 13 regular appropriation bills for fiscal year 2005, which begins on October 1, 2004.

Ordinarily, this annual report shows the total amount that the Congress has provided in appropriation acts for programs whose authorization has expired. At the time that this report was prepared, however, only six of the 13 regular appropriation acts had been enacted for fiscal year 2004 (Defense, energy and water, Homeland Security, Interior and related agencies, legislative branch, and military construction). Programs covered by the other seven appropriation acts are currently funded under a temporary continuing resolution (Public Law 108-135), which expires on January 31, 2004. For those programs, information on appropriations is unavailable. That fact is noted on entries in Appendix A, which consequently omits figures and totals relating to unauthorized appropriations for those programs.

The Scorekeeping Unit of CBO’s Budget Analysis Division prepared this report, under the direction of Janet Airis. The other members of that unit are Joanna Capps, Catherine Little, Virginia Myers, Robert Sempsey, and Jason Wheelock. The authors gratefully acknowledge the help of CBO’s Ellen Hays, Sandy Davis, Mary Froehlich, and Lenny Skutnik, as well as numerous staff members of Congressional committees.

Christine Bogusz edited the report, and Juyne Linger proofread it. Ernestine McNeil and Sharon Corbin-Jallow prepared the report for publication, and Annette Kalicki produced the electronic versions for CBO’s Web site (www.cbo.gov). Questions about the contents of this report should be directed to Janet Airis at (202) 226-2850.

January 15, 2004
Each year, the Congressional Budget Office (CBO) is required to report to the Congress on unauthorized appropriations and expiring authorizations. That requirement comes from the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985, which amended the Congressional Budget and Impoundment Control Act of 1974. Section 221(b) of the Deficit Control Act added the following requirement to section 202(e)(3) of the Congressional Budget Act, as amended:

On or before January 15 of each year, the Director [of CBO], after consultation with the appropriate committees of the House and the Senate, shall submit to the Congress a report listing (A) all programs and activities funded during the fiscal year ending September 30 of that calendar year for which authorizations for appropriations have not been enacted for that fiscal year, and (B) all programs and activities for which no authorizations for appropriations have been enacted for the fiscal year beginning October 1 of that calendar year.

According to the conference report on the Deficit Control Act, the purpose of that amendment was “to help Congress use the early months of the year to adopt authorizing legislation that must be in place before the thirteen regular appropriation bills can be considered.”

The Role of Authorizations
Authorization laws are an outgrowth of the long-standing legislative practice of distinguishing between the laws that set forth federal policies and the laws that fund them. In general, authorization laws establish, continue, or modify federal programs. Funding for many of those programs is then provided separately in annual appropriation acts. Some authorization laws merge policy and funding decisions—in effect, combining an authorization and appropriation in the same act. The resulting spending is referred to as direct, or mandatory, spending.

There are two kinds of authorization laws. The first type is the “organic,” or “enabling,” statute, which grants broad authority, establishes federal offices or duties, creates federal programs, or permits various activities to be carried out. The second type is a provision that specifically authorizes the appropriation of funds either to carry out the various authorities or duties established under an organic statute or to achieve other purposes. That kind of authorization may appear in the enabling statute or be enacted in a separate law.

This report focuses on the second type of authorization law. In general, those laws are intended to offer guidance to the appropriations committees on the amount of program funding to be provided in annual appropriation acts. That guidance is typically expressed as an authorization of appropriations. Such authorizations are provided either for specific dollar amounts (definite authorizations) or for “such sums as are necessary” (indefinite authorizations).

Authorizations of appropriations may be permanent, or they may cover only particular fiscal years. Authorizations that have a stated duration may be annual (pertaining to one fiscal year) or multiyear (pertaining to two, five, or any specific number of fiscal years). When such authorizations expire, the Congress may choose to extend the life of a program by reauthorizing the activity. The Congress may also extend a program simply by providing new appropriations for it. However, appropriations that are made available for a program after its authorization of appropriations has expired are considered “unauthorized” appropriations.

House and Senate rules—dating from the 19th century—generally preclude the Congress from considering appropriations that are not authorized by law. Rule 21 of the House of Representatives prohibits the inclusion of unauthorized appropriations in a general appropriation bill or in an amendment to a bill. For general appropriation bills, Rule 16 of the Senate restricts amendments that increase an appropriation or add a new item of appropriation unless they have been authorized by existing law. Both rules subject the legislation containing the unauthorized appropriation to a point of order upon its consideration by the House or Senate. However, House and Senate rules are not self-enforcing. A point of order must be raised by an individual Member for the rules to be enforced. In the House, a point of order under Rule 21 may be avoided by a waiver granted under the special rule that governs consideration of the general appropriation bill or amendments. In the Senate, a point of order under Rule 16 cannot be waived in the same manner, but the Senate rule includes several exceptions. If no point of order is raised, an unauthorized appropriation may proceed through the legislative process.

1. A point of order is an objection raised by a Member of Congress against a piece of legislation or a procedure on the grounds that it violates the rules of the House or Senate. The Presiding Officer decides whether to sustain or overrule the point of order on the basis of the specific rule and precedents under it. The decision of the Presiding Officer is subject to appeal to the full House or Senate.

2. A special rule is a simple resolution, reported by the House Rules Committee, that sets the terms and conditions for the House’s consideration of a piece of legislation.
Although this report is intended to aid the Congress by identifying those authorizations of appropriations that have expired or will expire, it does not identify programs that have never been authorized and therefore cannot be relied upon to determine the application of Rule 21 in the House or Rule 16 in the Senate. What constitutes an “unauthorized appropriation” under either rule is determined by the precedents of the House or Senate, and any question concerning the application of the rules should be addressed to the Office of the Parliamentarian.

More than half of all federal spending now funds programs for which the authorizing legislation provides budget authority. Such direct spending includes funding for most major entitlement programs. (Some entitlements are funded in annual appropriation laws, but the amounts provided are controlled by the authorizing legislation that established the entitlement.) The authorization laws that provide direct spending are typically permanent, but some major direct-spending programs, such as the Food Stamp program and certain transportation programs, require periodic renewal.

In 2003, lawmakers renewed several major authorizations of appropriations that had expired in earlier years. Those renewals include authorizations for the National Transportation Safety Board (which expired in 2002), Museum and Library Services (2002), and child abuse prevention programs (2001). In addition, they enacted laws extending major authorizations that were scheduled to expire at the end of 2003, such as those for the Department of Defense and intelligence agencies, the Federal Aviation Administration, and the U.S. Fire Administration. Lawmakers also enacted temporary authorizations for surface transportation programs (through February 29, 2004); the Small Business Administration (through March 15, 2004); and the flood insurance program, child nutrition programs, and Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (all through March 31, 2004).

Listings of Unauthorized Appropriations And Expiring Authorizations
This report covers all appropriated programs that at one time had an explicit authorization of appropriations that has expired or will expire this year. Appendix A lists programs that are likely to receive a full-year appropriation for fiscal year 2004 but whose applicable authorization has expired. Appendix B lists programs for which authorizations expire at or before the end of fiscal year 2004. The appendixes show the number and name of the public law containing the last authorization, the last year that the authorization was in effect, and the amount authorized in that year. If the authorization was provided for “such sums as are necessary,” the report shows the amount authorized as “indefinite.” The listings of public laws in the appendixes are displayed in three separate ways—by House authorizing committee, Senate authorizing committee, and appropriations subcommittee.
The information in this report is drawn from CBO’s Legislative Classification System, a database reflecting all public laws that contain nonpermanent authorizations of appropriations—up to and including laws enacted during the first session of the 108th Congress.

In general, House and Senate rules require the appropriations committees, in their reports on general appropriation bills, to identify any programs that are funded in the bills but lack an authorization—including programs for which explicit authorizations of appropriations have never been enacted. This CBO report, in contrast, covers only programs that at one time had an explicit authorization that either has expired or will expire. Also, as mentioned earlier, many laws establish programs with authorizations of appropriations that do not expire. Both the reports of the appropriations committees and this report exclude programs with that type of authorization because its effect is permanent.

Programs Funded in Fiscal Year 2004

With Expired Authorizations of Appropriations

Appendix A lists programs and activities to be funded by an appropriation for fiscal year 2004 whose authorization of appropriations has expired. Ordinarily, this annual report shows the total amount that the Congress has provided in appropriation acts for such programs and activities. At the time that this report was prepared, however, only six of the 13 regular appropriation acts had been enacted (Defense, energy and water, Homeland Security, Interior and related agencies, legislative branch, and military construction). Programs covered by the other seven appropriation acts are currently funded under a temporary continuing resolution that expires on January 31, 2004 (Public Law 108-135). As noted in the entries in Appendix A, information on appropriations is unavailable for those programs. Thus, this report omits figures and totals relating to their unauthorized appropriations.

In recent years, the total amount of unauthorized appropriations reported by CBO has ranged between about $90 billion and $120 billion annually. The total amount of unauthorized appropriations may be understated because funding for some unauthorized programs cannot be determined from available sources. In such cases, CBO lists the unauthorized amount as “not available” and does not add it to the total. Although information about specific appropriations for 2004 is currently unavailable for many programs and activities, examples of likely unauthorized appropriations include funding for the National Institutes of Health,
National Aeronautics and Space Administration, the Head Start program, foreign aid, and several programs for environmental research and water pollution control.

Authorizations of Appropriations

That Expire on or Before September 30, 2004

Appendix B lists programs and activities with authorizations of appropriations that expire by the end of fiscal year 2004. The appendix indicates the amounts authorized to be appropriated in 2004 for expiring programs and activities, rather than the amounts actually appropriated in that year.

Definite authorizations contained in laws under the jurisdiction of 14 House and 15 Senate authorizing committees that will expire by the end of this fiscal year total about $424 billion (see Tables 1, 2, and 3). However, most of that amount (about $397 billion) is authorized in a single law, the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2004 (P.L. 108-136), which also includes an authorization for the Maritime Administration and the atomic energy defense activities of the Department of Energy. Typically, authorizations for defense funding are renewed annually. Another annual reauthorization is the Intelligence Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2004 (P.L. 108-177). Most of the authorizations for intelligence activities are indefinite and classified.

Other major definite authorizations that expire by the end of 2004 include the Surface Transportation Act of 2003 (P.L. 108-88), the Trade Act of 2002 (P.L. 107-210), the Department of Justice Appropriations Authorization Act (P.L. 107-273), and the Low-Income Home Energy Assistance Act (P.L. 105-285).

Thus, as in other recent years, the total amount of expiring definite authorizations of appropriations this year is concentrated in a handful of laws. Of the 59 laws with authorizations that expire this year, four account for nearly 99 percent of the year’s expiring definite authorizations. Conversely, 27 laws have definite authorizations of $50 million or less; together, they make up less than 0.1 percent of the total amount of expiring definite authorizations.

Some laws with expiring indefinite authorizations also involve relatively large amounts of funding. Classified spending for intelligence activities is substantial and, as noted earlier, reauthorized annually. Other indefinite authorizations that expire this year include the Public Health Improvement Act of 2000 (P.L. 106-505), the Children’s Health Act of 2000 (P.L. 106-310), and the Indian Tribal Justice Technical and Legal Assistance Act of 2000 (P.L. 106-559).

b. The amount specified in statute or legislative history. When an authorization is indefinite (that is, “such sums as are necessary”), no amount is included. An amount of zero indicates that all expiring authorizations in that committee’s jurisdiction are indefinite. The entries may not add up to the total because of rounding.
