Expired and Expiring Authorizations of Appropriations: Fiscal Year 2018, Revised

Appendix Material Sorted by Appropriations Subcommittee

Notes

Numbers in the tables may not sum to totals because of rounding.

In separate versions of this report, the public laws in the appendixes are displayed in one of three ways: by House authorizing committee, by Senate authorizing committee, and by appropriations subcommittee. Each entry is listed once in each report, generally under the primary committee to which the bill was referred.

Expired and Expiring Authorizations of Appropriations: Fiscal Year 2018, Revised

Overview

Authorizations of appropriations are provisions of law that authorize funds to be provided through a future appropriation law to carry out a program or function. They are different from appropriations, which provide funding once those authorizations are in place. Each year, the Congressional Budget Office reports to the Congress on the following:

- All programs and activities funded for the current fiscal year for which the authorizations of appropriations have expired, and
- All programs and activities for which the authorizations of appropriations will expire during the current fiscal year.

CBO most recently published the fiscal year 2018 version of this report on January 12, 2018, as required by section 202(e)(3) of the Congressional Budget and Impoundment Control Act of 1974.[1] That analysis was current through the end of the first session of the 115th Congress, but at the time none of the 12 regular appropriation bills for fiscal year 2018 had been enacted.

At the request of the Chairman of the Senate Committee on the Budget, CBO has updated its analysis, and this report contains information that is current through the March 23, 2018, enactment of the Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2018 (Public Law 115-141), which contained the 12 regular appropriation bills for fiscal year 2018.

The Role of Authorizations

The term authorization is used to describe two types of laws. The first are enabling statutes (sometimes called organic statutes), which create a federal agency, establish a federal program, prescribe a federal function, or provide for a particular federal obligation or expenditure within a program. Such an authorization may allow a federal agency, program, or function to continue indefinitely or for a specific period. It may provide an agency with the authority to obligate and spend federal funds in the form of direct—or mandatory—spending, or it may simply specify a purpose for which a subsequent appropriation may be made available.

This report, however, focuses on the second type: authorizations of appropriations that authorize the appropriation of funds (generally providing discretionary funding) to carry out a program or function established in an enabling statute. An authorization of appropriations constitutes guidance to the Congress about the funding that may be necessary to implement an enabling statute; it may be contained in that enabling statute or provided separately. An authorization of appropriations may be annual, multiyear, or permanent. Such an authorization also may be definite or indefinite: It may authorize a specific amount or "such sums as may be necessary." In either case, CBO refers to it as an explicit authorization.

House and Senate rules dating from the 19th century restrict the consideration of an appropriation if it lacks

1. See Congressional Budget Office, Expired and Expiring Authorizations of Appropriations (January 2018), www.cbo.gov/publication/53444; and House Report 99-433 (December 10, 1985), p. 114, the conference report accompanying the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985, which amended the Congressional Budget Act of 1974 to include the requirement for this report. The stated purpose of the requirement is "to help Congress use the early months of the year to adopt authorizing legislation that must be in place before the regular appropriation bills can be considered."

an authorization of appropriations.[2] Whether an appropriation lacks authorization and whether it is in violation of a House or Senate rule are determined by the Speaker of the House or the Presiding Officer of the Senate on the basis of advice from the relevant chamber's Office of the Parliamentarian. Although this report is intended to aid the Congress by identifying authorizations of appropriations that have already expired or will expire this year, it is not and should not be considered definitive with respect to the application of House or Senate rules.

The Scope of This Report

In general, House and Senate rules require the appropriations committees, in their reports on general appropriation bills, to identify any programs that are funded in the bills but lack an authorization—including programs for which an explicit authorization of appropriations has never been enacted. This CBO report, as specified by law, is narrower in scope: It covers only programs that at one time had an explicit authorization of appropriations and only programs for which that authorization either has expired or is scheduled to expire in the current fiscal year. Many laws provide permanent authorizations of appropriations for certain programs. This report excludes those authorizations and programs, as do the reports of the appropriations committees.

Even if an authorization of appropriations has expired, this report does not identify whether an enabling statute governing the relevant program or activity has expired. A permanent law may continue to set the policies and guidelines under which appropriations are obligated, but identifying whether such enabling statutes exist and whether they may have expired is not the focus of the law that mandates this report. Indeed, it would be virtually impossible to identify all instances of expiring authorities across all of the federal government's programs and activities.

The information in this report is drawn from CBO's Legislative Classification System (LCS), a database of nonpermanent and explicit authorizations of appropriations. It includes information from previously enacted public laws, up to and including the Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2018.

2. See clause 2(a)(1) of Rule XXI of the Rules of the House of Representatives, H.R. Doc. 114-192 (2016), p. 868; and clause 1 of Rule XVI of the Standing Rules of the Senate, S. Doc. 113-18 (2013), p. 11.

CBO produces three versions of this report—all contain the same information but are organized differently. In the separate versions, the public laws in the appendixes are displayed in one of three ways: by House authorizing committee, by Senate authorizing committee, or by appropriations subcommittee. Each entry is listed once in each report, generally under the primary committee to which the bill was referred.

Listings of Expired or Expiring Authorizations of Appropriations

This report covers programs funded through the annual appropriation process that satisfy two conditions:

- At one time, the program had an explicit authorization of appropriations, and
- That authorization of appropriations has expired or will expire this year.

The listings in the appendixes include the number and name of the public law with the most recent authorization of appropriations, the last year in which the authorization was in effect, and the amount (definite or indefinite) of appropriations authorized in that year.

CBO has identified 1,035 authorizations of appropriations that expired before the beginning of fiscal year 2018. Those authorizations appeared in 261 different laws and, when most recently in effect, authorized a combined annual total of $168 billion for certain agencies, programs, or functions. By CBO's estimate, $341 billion has been appropriated for fiscal year 2018 for those agencies, programs, or functions (see Table 1, Table 2, and Table 3).*

Listings in Appendixes A and B

The programs with expired explicit authorizations of appropriations can be divided into two categories: The first group consists of 410 authorizations that have received an identifiable appropriation for fiscal year 2018. The second group consists of 625 authorizations that may be receiving funding in fiscal year 2018 but for which CBO cannot identify an explicit amount either in the statutory text of fiscal year 2018 appropriation acts or in the accompanying legislative history.

Programs and activities listed in Appendix A have explicit authorizations of appropriations that have expired and

This table shows only the committees that have jurisdiction over expired authorizations of appropriations in CBO's Legislative Classification System; therefore, not all House committees are included.

a. Includes laws containing expired authorizations of appropriations for definite or indefinite amounts. The total is less than the sum of the entries because laws containing authorizations of appropriations that are under the jurisdiction of more than one House authorizing committee are counted only once.

b. Number of explicit authorizations of appropriations within the jurisdiction of each House authorizing committee that expired on or before September 30, 2017.

have received an identifiable appropriation in fiscal year 2018. To identify those appropriations, CBO compared the authorizations of appropriations cataloged in its LCS with the relevant statutory text and associated legislative history—in particular, the explanatory statement referenced in section 4 of the Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2018. CBO identified fiscal year 2018 appropriations for 410 programs or activities with expired authorizations of appropriations from about 170 laws that have not otherwise been updated or overtaken by subsequent legislation. Funding for those programs and activities totals $341 billion in fiscal year 2018.* The last time appropriations were enacted in time for CBO to undertake a comparable analysis was in 2016, when the agency identified $310 billion in funding for about 350 programs and activities with expired authorizations of appropriations from about 160 laws.[3]

Appendix B lists other programs and activities for which the explicit authorization of appropriations has expired. In each case, CBO believes the program may be receiving funding in fiscal year 2018, but it cannot identify an explicit amount in the statutory text of fiscal year 2018 appropriation acts or their accompanying legislative history. If an authorization of appropriations is listed in Appendix B, CBO does not have a compelling reason to believe that it has been permanently canceled or overtaken by other authorizations of appropriations. CBO has identified 625 such provisions that expired before the beginning of fiscal year 2018 that, in the final year in which they were in effect, authorized total appropriations of almost $24 billion. In CBO's January 2016 report, which listed provisions that had expired before the beginning of fiscal year 2016, the agency identified about 600 such expired authorizations of appropriations, which in the aggregate authorized $19 billion in appropriations in the final year in which they were in effect.

3. Another 100 laws included expired authorizations of appropriations for which CBO could not identify appropriations in 2016. See Congressional Budget Office, Unauthorized Appropriations and Expiring Authorizations (January 2016), www.cbo.gov/publication/51131.

CBO identified several points of comparison between its 2016 and 2018 analyses of programs and activities for which authorizations of appropriations previously expired:

- The amount of identifiable funding for programs with expired authorizations of appropriations has increased from $310 billion in 2016 to $341 billion in 2018.
- Most identifiable funding in 2018 for such programs and activities is for the same large authorizations of appropriations that expired before 2016 and that have not been reauthorized. In 2016, CBO identified $267 billion (or 86 percent) of the $310 billion total as being appropriated for expired authorizations of appropriations from just 15 laws. In 2018, CBO identified $294 billion (or 86 percent) of the $341 billion total as being appropriated for expired authorizations of appropriations from 12 of those same 15 laws and 3 others (see Table 4).

The total is less than the sum of the entries because laws containing authorizations of appropriations that are under the jurisdiction of more than one appropriations subcommittee are counted only once.

b. Number of explicit authorizations of appropriations within the jurisdiction of each appropriations subcommittee that expired on or before September 30, 2017.

The relevant authorizations of appropriations in one of those laws (an act to amend title IV of the Public Health Service Act to revise and extend the authorities of the National Institutes of Health, and for other purposes, P.L. 109-482) were renewed by the 21st Century Cures Act (P.L. 114-255).[4]

- Supplemental appropriations provided in response to hurricanes that affected the United States in August 2017 contributed to the increase in funding for programs with expired authorizations of appropriations. Lawmakers provided $28 billion in supplemental appropriations for Community Development Block Grants—for which the authorization of appropriations of $4 billion had expired at the end of fiscal year 1994—as part of the Further Additional Supplemental Appropriations for Disaster Relief Requirements Act, 2018 (subdivision 1 of division B of the Bipartisan Budget Act of 2018, P.L. 115-123). Excluding supplemental appropriations, comparable funding for the program (about $3 billion) was enacted in 2016 and again in 2018.

- Appropriations for the National Institutes of Health (NIH) were reauthorized, thus reducing a large ($31 billion in 2016) and recurring source of appropriations without authorizations. In 2016, lawmakers enacted the 21st Century Cures Act, which reauthorized appropriations for NIH through 2020.

4. The other two laws contained authorizations of appropriations for programs and activities of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) and the Coast Guard. Appropriations for the Coast Guard and NASA were reauthorized (in 2016 and 2017, respectively), but lapsed again; they are the source of $31 billion (or 9 percent) of the funding that CBO identified in fiscal year 2018 with expired authorizations of appropriations.*

This table shows major statutory sources of expired authorizations of appropriations for which CBO was able to identify appropriations in 2016 and 2018.

a. In CBO's 2016 edition of this report, the agency identified two authorizations of appropriations in P.L. 111-152 that had not been overtaken by subsequent legislation. One authorization—to provide technical assistance to institutions of higher education that participate in loan programs—had previously expired in 2010, but CBO could not identify any 2016 funding for that purpose. The other authorization of appropriations—for the Federal Pell Grant Program—was effective through fiscal year 2017, and so no funding provided for that purpose in 2016 appears in this table.

As of March 23, 2018, the authorization of appropriations for the Federal Pell Grant Program contained in P.L. 111-152 had expired.

In preparing the March 2019 edition of this report, CBO discovered an error in its 2018 tabulations; this report previously misreported the amount of funding for the Federal Pell Grant Program as $22 million. The amounts in this table now include the correct amount (about $22.5 billion) for that program and separately identify those amounts with P.L. 111-152. The incorrectly reported amount for the program was previously included in the subtotal for "All Other Laws With Identifiable Appropriations."

b. Public Laws 115-10 and 114-120 were enacted after CBO published its January 2016 report Unauthorized and Expiring Authorizations of Appropriations. Both of those laws reauthorized appropriations for purposes similar to those of P.L. 111-267 and 113-281, respectively, but most of those reauthorizations have expired. P.L. 109-482, 111-267, and 113-281 contained authorizations of appropriations that expired before fiscal year 2016. Those authorizations of appropriations were renewed by subsequent legislation.

a. Includes laws with expiring authorizations of appropriations for definite or indefinite amounts. The total is less than the sum of the entries because laws containing authorizations of appropriations that are under the jurisdiction of more than one House authorizing committee are counted only once.

b. Number of explicit authorizations of appropriations within the jurisdiction of each House authorizing committee that expire on or before September 30, 2018.

c. Amounts specified in statute, a conference report, or other legislative history. For the purposes of summation, authorizations of appropriations for indefinite amounts are counted as zero.

- The amount of funding for programs with expired authorizations of appropriations continues to exceed amounts previously authorized. Excluding activities with expired authorizations of appropriations for indefinite amounts, programs with expired authorizations of appropriations received $246 billion in 2018, $77 billion more than the amount most recently authorized to be appropriated for such programs. In 2016, funding for such programs was $209 billion, $49 billion more than the previously authorized amount. About $28 billion of the differences between the amounts in each of those years can be attributed to the supplemental funding provided in 2018 for Community Development Block Grants. Other smaller differences largely offset the changes between 2016 and 2018.

Listings in Appendix C

Authorizations of appropriations that will expire at or before the end of fiscal year 2018 are listed in Appendix C, which shows the amounts authorized to be appropriated in 2018 for those programs and activities rather than the amounts actually appropriated for that year.

As of the enactment of the Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2018, 188 authorizations of appropriations from 29 laws, totaling $712 billion in fiscal year 2018, will expire on or before September 30, 2018 (see Table 5, Table 6, and Table 7). Most of that funding—$692 billion—is from seven authorizations in a single law, the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2018

(P.L. 115-91).[5] Typically, authorizations for defense funding are renewed annually. The second-largest source of expiring authorizations of appropriations in dollar terms is the Disaster Tax Relief and Airport and Airway Extension Act of 2017 (P.L. 115-63), with five authorizations totaling over $8 billion that are set to expire before September 30, 2018. In addition, almost $4 billion from two authorizations of appropriations enacted in the Global Food Security Act of 2016 (P.L. 114-195) will expire by the end of the fiscal year.

5. Typically, the National Defense Authorization Act incorporates, by reference, tables including authorizations of appropriations for projects, programs, and activities to be funded from within broader categories of Department of Defense (DoD) spending. This report lists the authorizations of appropriations by major category of DoD spending, fewer than 10 in all, instead of the individual projects, programs, and activities, which number in the thousands.

The Agricultural Act of 2014 (P.L. 113-79) has the largest number of authorizations of appropriations set to expire this year—more than 100 individual authorizations totaling over $2 billion. Also due to expire during fiscal year 2018 are certain authorizations of appropriations in the Violence Against Women Reauthorization Act of 2013 (P.L. 113-4), with 19 authorizations of appropriations totaling almost $570 million, and the Pandemic and All-Hazards Preparedness Reauthorization Act of 2013 (P.L. 113-5), with 11 authorizations of appropriations totaling over $2 billion.

Authorizations of Appropriations That Are Set to Expire by the End of Fiscal Year 2019

Nearly 100 authorizations of appropriations, totaling about $10 billion, are set to expire on or before September 30, 2019. (Those authorizations are not

This table shows only the committees that have jurisdiction over authorizations of appropriations expiring in 2018; therefore, not all appropriations subcommittees are included.

FDA = Food and Drug Administration; HHS = Health and Human Services; HUD = Housing and Urban Development.

a. Includes laws with expiring authorizations of appropriations for definite or indefinite amounts. The total is less than the sum of the entries because laws containing authorizations of appropriations that are under the jurisdiction of more than one appropriations subcommittee are counted only once.

b. Number of explicit authorizations of appropriations within the jurisdiction of each appropriations subcommittee that expire on or before September 30, 2018.

c. Amounts specified in statute, a conference report, or other legislative history.

listed in this report.) Most of them, and the bulk of the amounts authorized, are contained in five pieces of legislation: the Older Americans Act Reauthorization Act of 2016 (P.L. 114-144), with 17 individual authorizations of appropriations totaling almost $2 billion; the Omnibus Public Land Management Act of 2009 (P.L. 111-11), with 16 authorizations of appropriations totaling over $180 million; the Water Resources Reform and Development Act of 2014 (P.L. 113-121), with 14 authorizations of appropriations totaling over $200 million; the Department of Veterans Affairs Expiring Authorities Act of 2017 (P.L. 115-62), with 7 authorizations of appropriations totaling over $1 billion; and the Bipartisan Budget Act of 2018 (P.L. 115-123), with 3 authorizations of appropriations totaling over $4 billion.

About This Document

This report by the Congressional Budget Office was prepared at the request of the Senate Budget Committee. It is as an update to the most recent publication of Expired and Expiring Authorizations of Appropriations (January 2018), which satisfied the requirements of section 202(e)(3) of the Congressional Budget and Impoundment Control Act of 1974, as amended. The report is intended to assist the Congress by identifying authorizations of appropriations that have expired or that will expire this year. Previous editions of this annual report, until 2016 called Unauthorized Appropriations and Expiring Authorizations, are available at https://go.usa.gov/xnp7r.

The report was prepared by Joanna Capps, George McArdle, Justin Riordan, Mark Sanford, Esther Steinbock, and J'nell Blanco Suchy with guidance from Adam Wilson. Patt Watson and Shane Beaulieu of CBO and many staff members of Congressional committees provided assistance.

Theresa Gullo, Mark Hadley, and Robert Sunshine reviewed the report; Kate Kelly edited it; and Casey Labrack prepared it for publication. An electronic version is available on CBO's website, www.cbo.gov/publication/54126.
